

TOOL SHEET

TRICOUNT

An application that helps a group to calculate the balance of collective expenditure

Description

Share collective expenses, balance these expenses between each participant and reimburse those who have invested the most in the event.

Use

You go on holidays with friends, each one pays expenses on behalf of all or part of the group. Each payer enters in the application what he/she spent and and who benefited from the payment

Then you can see the status of the accounts, how much each person paid, and the balance "Who owes how much to whom". Refunds can be made online if users have a paypal account. If not, each person can reimburse themselves as they see fit (cash, bank transfer, cheque...).

Either one person enters the information on the application, or each participant has access to the application and enter their own expenses.

And as they say "good accounts make good friends", there is no discussion, no accounting, the application does it for us!
